Fishing Spots

Lawrence County is home to a diverse range of fishing spots, each with its unique charm and challenges. Here are some of the most popular locations:

- Ohio River: The mighty Ohio River is a prime spot for fishing, with a vast population of catfish, sauger, walleye, and white bass.
- Symmes Creek: This scenic creek offers a serene setting for fishing, with a mix of smallmouth bass, bluegill, and crappie.
- Little Scioto River: This lively river provides a great spot for fishing for catfish, carp, and sunfish.

In addition to these major waterways, there are numerous smaller creeks, tributaries, and ponds scattered throughout Lawrence County, each offering its own unique fishing opportunities.

Fish Species

Lawrence County is home to a wide variety of fish species, including:

- Catfish (channel, blue, flathead)
- Sauger
- Walleye
- White bass
- Smallmouth bass
- Bluegill
- Crappie

- Carp
- Sunfish

The best time to fish for each species depends on the season and water conditions, so it's always a good idea to consult with local fishing experts or check the Ohio Department of Natural Resources website for up-to-date information.

Floating

In addition to fishing, Lawrence County is a great place to go floating. The Ohio River provides a scenic and relaxing float, with opportunities for swimming, picnicking, and wildlife viewing. Symmes Creek is also a popular floating destination, offering a more intimate experience with nature.

There are several companies in Lawrence County that offer guided float trips, as well as canoe and kayak rentals. If you're planning to float on your own, be sure to check the water levels and weather conditions before出发.
